New from Nova Scotia - Part I

I've posted some great chabazite specimens from Wasson's Bluff in this Nova Scotia Update (click here).

This is the classic Canadian locality for chabazite, including the deep-coloured ones that were once known as "acadialite", and many of the specimens in this update are this colour (there are also very fine cabinet specimens of the nice mid-orange colour.) Acadialite was named after Acadia (which is the English for L'Acadie, the colonial-era name for this part of Canada). The name "acadialite" is sometimes still seen on older collection labels, sometimes as a species name and sometimes as a varietal name. Under current nomenclature, these specimens are known as chabazite, with "acadialite" now considered a historical synonym.
This is the first of two Nova Scotia updates - coming up in the next update are excellent specimens from a recent find at Cape Spilt.

Hope you enjoy these!

Canadian and US Dollar

The currency disparity remains significant in favour of the U.S. dollar these days. My usual reminder - prices on the website are in Canadian dollars (if you are thinking in - or used to browsing online minerals in - US dollar terms).

If you are receiving this email in any format in which the above link does not work, the address is:

The link for all new specimens on the website:

http://www.mcdougallminerals.com/New-Specimens.html

(If at any time you no longer wish to receive email from us, please just click below to unsubscribe.)

R.